

It's Okay...

A collaborative poem by pupils of Heddon-on-the-Wall St. Andrew's CE Primary School

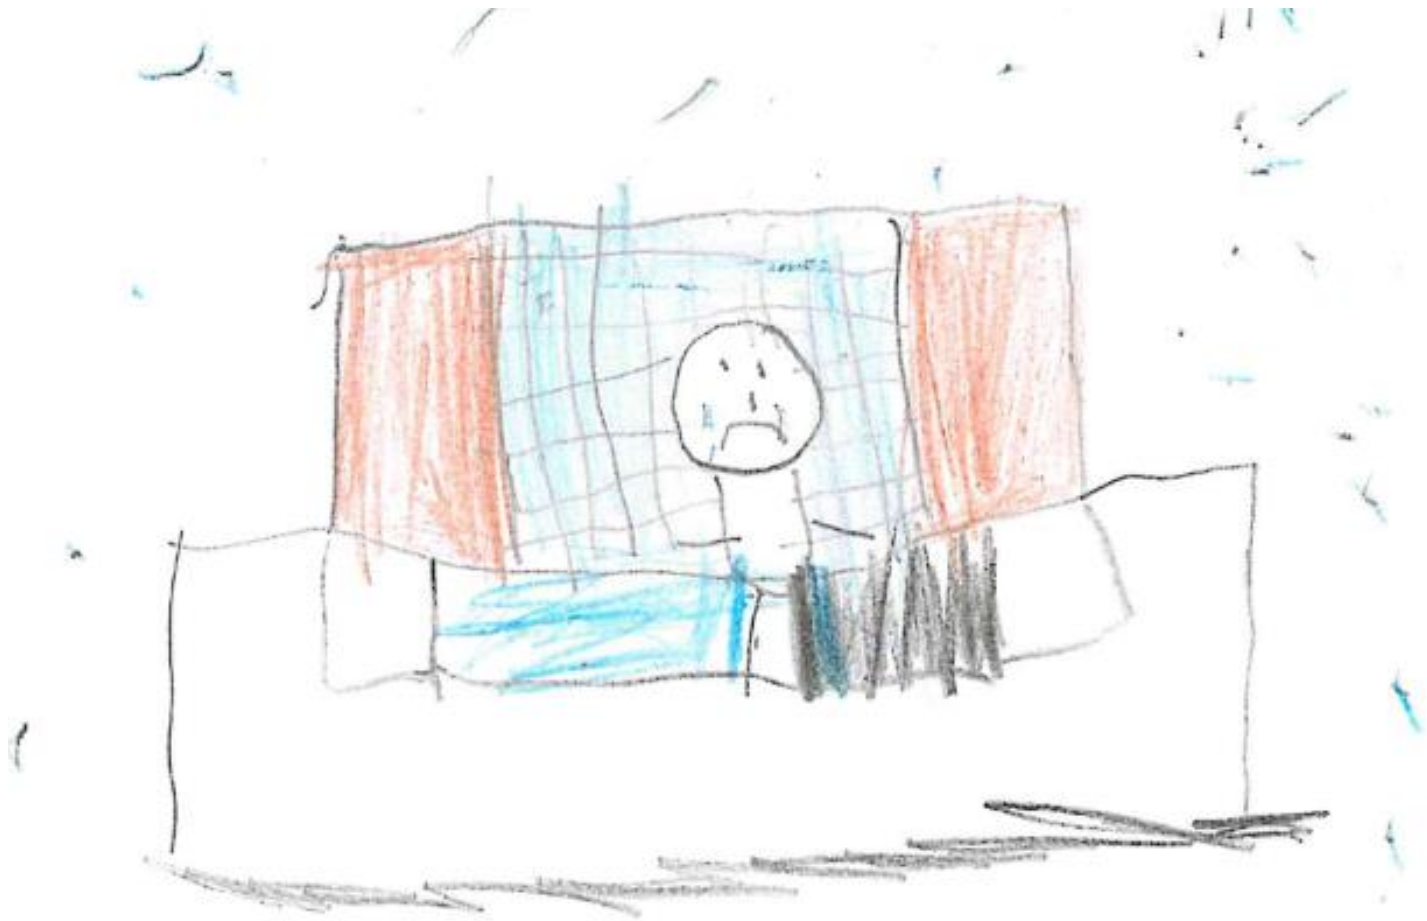

It's OKay to be different, don't you see.

It's what makes you special just like me.

It's okay if you have greeckels or a missing tooth.

'It's okay to feel lonely,
that's the truth.'

straight

wavy

It's okay if your hair is straight or wavy.

It's okay if your feet quit, or like to be early.

Presentation Title

I t's okay to wear glasses and its okay to be tall.

It's okay to be tiny, or not talk much at all

H A
P P

S A
d

It's Okay to feel Happy. It's Okay to Feel Sad!

Happy

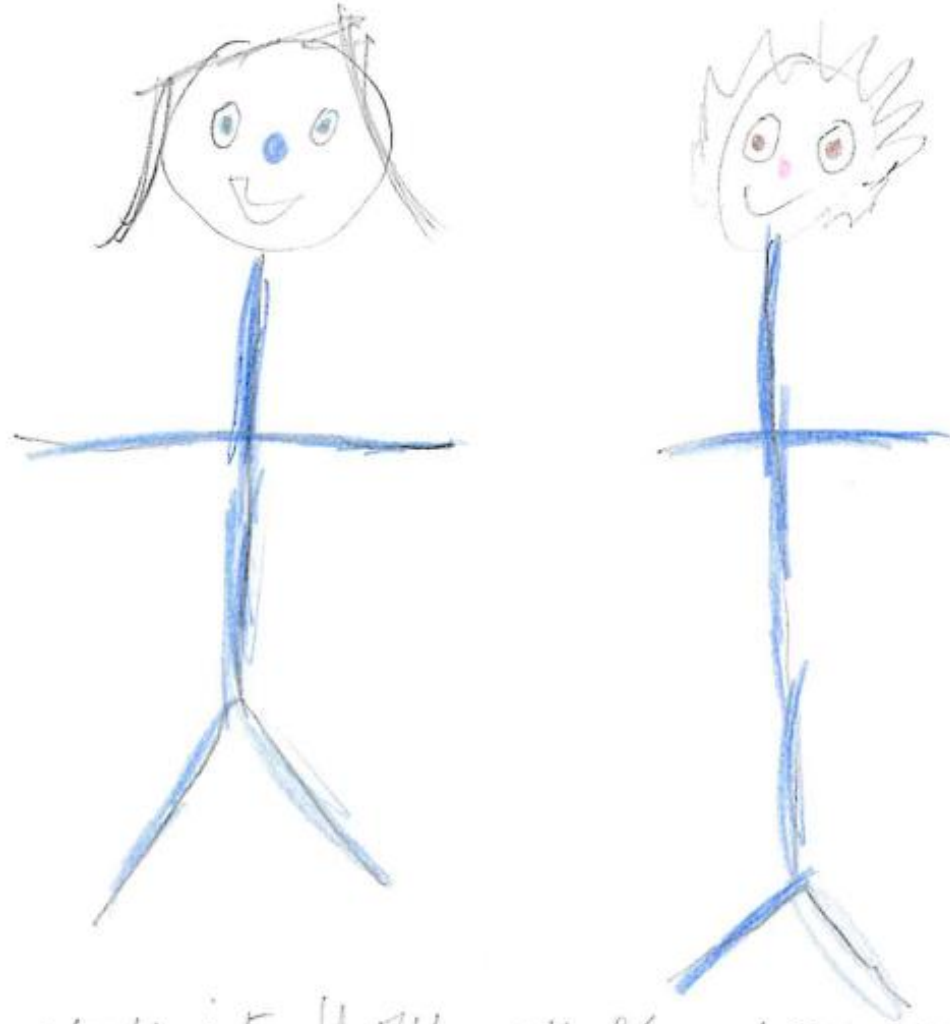

Mad

It's okay to feel excited, or even a bit mad.

It's okay if your skin is dark or light,

It's - okay if your eyes are brown or blue. Presentation Title

It's okay to be different different

It's okay if your family looks different than mine, it's okay if they're big,

small, or just different.

It's okay if you have one parent or two. It's okay if you live with a grandparent too.

It's okay if you use a wheelchair to move.

It's okay to dance and find your own groove.

Presentation Title

It's okay to be you, every single part

Presentation Title

It's ok to be different, with your ^{own} unique heart.

It's okay if you aren't from around here,

It's okay to be new, and to feel some fear.

It's okay to cry when you feel blue.

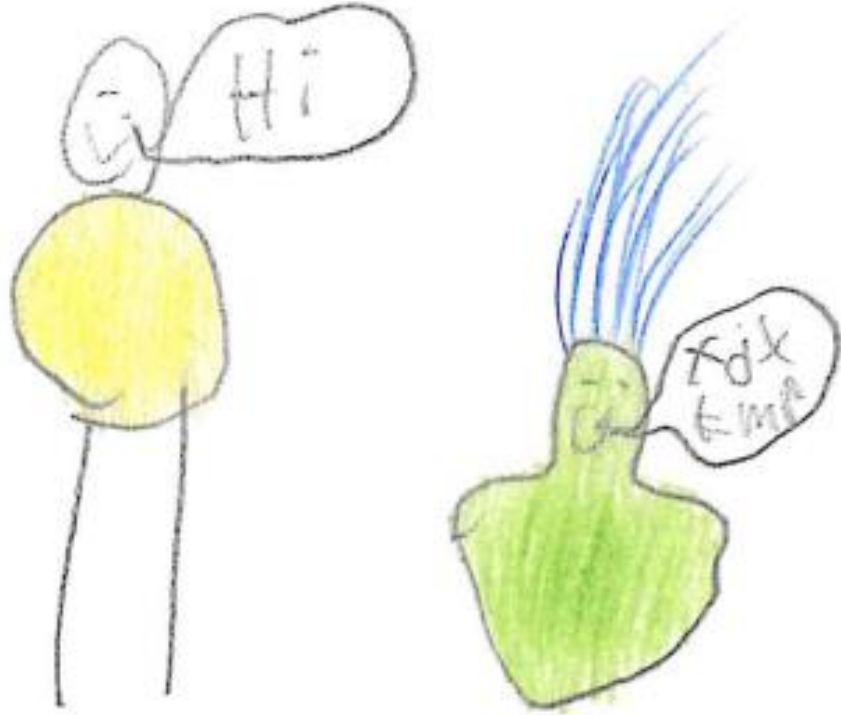

Presentation Title

I am so funny
ha ha
ha

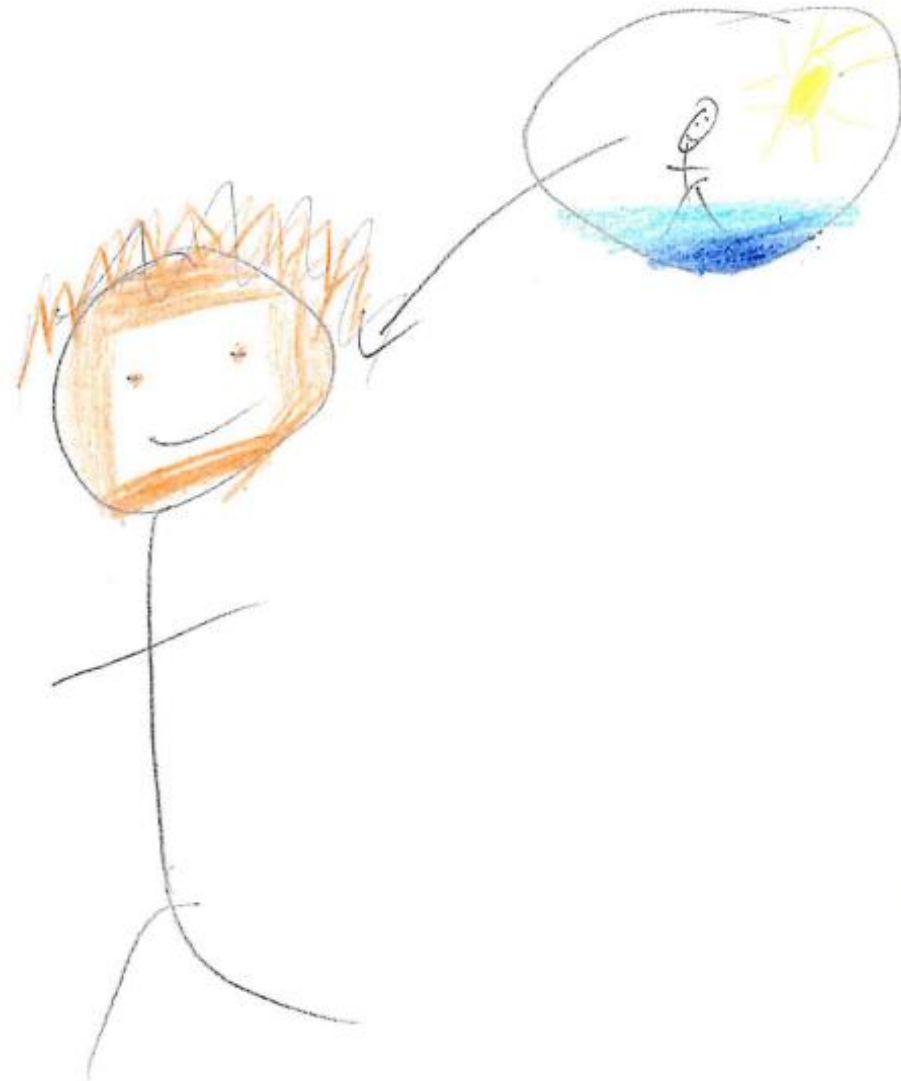

It's Okay to laugh at yourself too!

It's okay if you speak a different way.

It's okay if you have a lot to say.

It's okay if you dream of far-away places.

It's okay if you've familiar faces

It's okay to wear what you like the best.

It's okay to be different from the rest.

It's okay if you learn at a slower pace,

Presentation Title

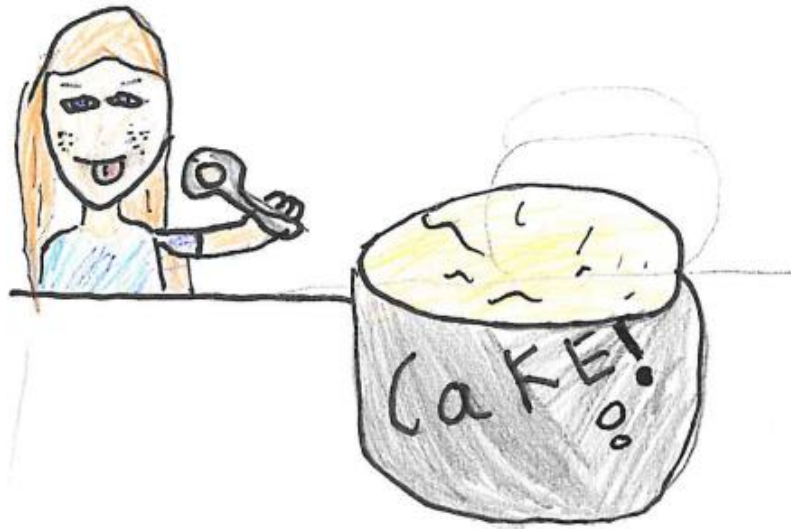

It's OKay if your hobby Presentation Title

it's okay to explore what you love to find.

I it's okay to ask for help - or to make a mistake.

It's ok to lick the spoon when you're baking a cake!

So remember each day,
in all that you do,

YRE
in W Held on

It's really to be different because you are you!

In our class, we welcome
you. All your differences make our group true.

It's okay to be different, don't you see? It's what makes you special, just like me.

It's okay to have freckles or a missing tooth, It's okay to feel lonely, that's the truth.

It's okay if your hair is straight or curly, It's okay if you're quiet, or like to be early.

It's okay to wear glasses and it's okay to be tall, It's okay to be tiny, or not talk much at all.

It's okay to feel happy, it's okay to feel sad, It's okay to feel excited, or even a bit mad.

It's okay if your skin is dark or light, It's okay if your eyes are brown or bright.

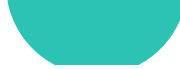

It's okay if your family looks different than mine, It's okay if they're big, small, or just fine.

It's okay if you have one parent or two, It's okay if you live with a grandparent too.

It's okay if you use a wheelchair to move, It's okay to dance and find your own groove.

It's okay to be you, every single part, It's okay to be different, with your unique heart.

It's okay if you aren't from around here, It's okay to be new, and to feel some fear.

It's okay to cry when you feel blue, It's okay to laugh at yourself too!

It's okay if you speak a different way, It's okay if you've got a lot to say.

It's okay if you dream of faraway places, It's okay if you love familiar faces.

It's okay to wear what you like the best, It's okay to be different from the rest.

It's okay if you learn at a slower pace, It's okay if you're quick and love to race.

It's okay if your hobbies are one of a kind, It's okay to explore what you love to find.

It's okay to ask for help- or to make a mistake, It's ok to lick the spoon when you're baking a cake!

So remember each day, in all that you do, It's okay to be different, because you are you...

In our class, we welcome you, All your differences make our group true.

Thank You

